ROLE REVERSAL!

Primary students may have diverse learning styles. The flexibility of the flipped classroom model allows educators to incorporate various resources and activities, catering to different learning preferences. Primary students have different learning speeds. Flipped learning allows them to progress at their own pace as it is a methodology that helps teachers to prioritize active learning during class time, assigning students topic to give lecture.

So here was a golden opportunity for our Grade III Johnsonites during the revision period to train their classmates during school hours to choose any topic from each subject and teach the class by using the board to draw, charts, quiz, activity based learning, experiments, model, storytelling.

We witnessed students how they voluntarily participated in flip teaching enacting to the best of their subject teachers, most importantly parents involvement was observed as the little ones were well prepared and encouraged from home as well. The flipped model can increase student-student interaction during class time. Collaborative activities, discussions, and group projects become central components, promoting social skills and teamwork.
